The character of cuisine in India is regional; the sheer size of the country has forced every area to develop a style of cooking of its own. Not only dishes, but flavours, colors, methods of cooking, down to even the style of cutting the vegetables changes as often as the landscape does. What has helped along this diversity is the amazing number of religions and the sects and sub-sects within them. In this tour, we will take a walk through Crawford Market with a guide (1hr), to see the fruit market, vegetable market, spices and grocery stores. We will also visit the city's famous dabbawala lunch delivery service (15 mins). We will then explore the art district/heritage district on foot, do some shopping in the boutiques and art galleries. For lunch, we will take a break in between at one of the city's popular restaurants.
